Celebrating life: Pro-life advocates meet to discuss post-Dobbs strategies

August 7, 2024 / Reporter / By Frank Kohn

For years, The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod (LCMS) has participated in the annual March for Life in Washington, D.C., joining tens of thousands to march to the U.S. Supreme Court on the anniversary of its 1973 Roe v. Wade decision legalizing abortion in all 50 states. Lutherans stand out, as they do in other marches around the country, by wearing green hats and ball caps provided by LCMS Life Ministry, singing hymns, and confessing their faith in creed and prayer.

The efforts of LCMS Life Ministry have not gone unnoticed by other organizations that have done yeoman’s work in fighting for the protection of life in the womb. One of those organizations, Sidewalk Advocates for Life (SAFL), invited Life Ministry to participate in the first Celebrate Life Weekend June 21–23, also in Washington, D.C., to mark the Supreme Court’s Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization ruling, which overturned Roe v. Wade, on June 24, 2022.

The Celebrate Life mission is to “unite pro-life women and men to celebrate, collaborate, and strategize for the protection of preborn children and to make abortion unthinkable in our culture.” Attendees from numerous organizations discussed strategies to protect unborn children. A conference was also offered with breakout sessions on subjects such as empowering women to counter falsehoods about abortion and taking action to save lives.

Deaconess Dr. Tiffany Manor, managing director for Human Care and Ministerial Support for the LCMS Office of National Mission (ONM), presented a session on “Activating ‘Life Disciples’ in Your Church Community.” She discussed how LCMS Life Ministry equips and encourages congregations to educate their members of all ages on God’s design for life, the family and marriage — in the church and home. Manor unpacked the foundation for the LCMS’ educational efforts — the distinction between Law and Gospel, which “are really important concepts when teaching about the sanctity of human life,” she said.

Manor also gave advice on how to engage congregation members in pro-life activity.

“Start with [getting] a group of people together to commit to prayer, to commit to study[ing] the Bible,” Manor said. “As more people become engaged and interested, as everyone has the same understanding of what God says about ... His creation of life, then folks might be more interested in hearing what the congregation can do to get involved, and then to connect with partners in the community.”

Manor noted that communities are different and recommended checking in “with partners, other churches, pregnancy resource centers, physicians, even your local policy makers” to see what the unmet needs are. She suggested asking how women, children and families are underserved in a community and what might be done to address those needs. “Then you can figure out what your congregation can offer your community.”

Also representing the LCMS in D.C. were the Rev. Daniel Galchutt, ONM executive director, and the Rev. James Douthwaite, pastor of St. Athanasius Lutheran Church in nearby Vienna, Va.

Galchutt gave the opening prayer for the gala on Friday evening. The following morning, Douthwaite gave a devotion before attendees headed to the Lincoln Memorial for a rally in 100-degree heat.

In his devotion, Douthwaite encouraged conference attendees dismayed by the efforts in many states to keep abortion legal.

“The Dobbs decision was great. A step in the right direction, but only a step,” he said. “Since then there have been setbacks — states enacting laws and amending their constitutions in ways that do not support life. ... All of which is a reminder to us that the right laws and more laws may help, but ... the answer is Jesus. The answer is to change hearts.”

“Changing the law is hard,” Douthwaite continued. “It took 50 years to get Dobbs, but hearts are harder still.” Douthwaite referenced Ecclesiastes 3:9 — “What gain has the worker from his toil?” — acknowledging that those who advocate for life “may not see results. You may want to throw up your hands and give up.” Yet, he said pro-lifers’ efforts are never in vain. “As Isaiah reminds us, God’s Word never returns empty, but accomplishes that for which God purposes and succeeds in the thing for which He sends it [Isaiah 55:11]. And that is true for His written word, His spoken word and especially His Word made flesh in Jesus.

“He is still giving life and redeeming life, and so we will continue to celebrate His gift of life and fight to protect it.”

Coming up

LCMS Life Ministry is promoting pro-life events around the country:

2024

- Sept. 23: Pennsylvania March for Life in Harrisburg
- Sept. 26: New Jersey March for Life in Trenton

2025

- Jan. 24: National March for Life in Washington, D.C.

Registration deadline: Sept. 23, 2024

Dr. Stephen Pietsch
Today mental health struggles affect so many people, draining their energy and joy for life and undermining their confidence. People rightly look for medical and psychological treatment to help them in such struggles. Yet, as researchers are recognizing more and more, a large component of these struggles is spiritual, and people need spiritual care and healing too. In this workshop we will draw on the long Christian tradition of care and comfort to those in mental distress, looking into Scripture, as well as gaining insights from Martin Luther and his pastoral care of those with mental struggles.

SEPTEMBER STEWARDSHIP

Stewards, Called to Forgiveness

Human beings were created and redeemed to be stewards. Bearing the image of God (Gen. 1:26–28), the steward was created to reflect the Creator within creation. In a way, stewards are simply mirrors. Mirrors cannot do anything to the image that is placed in front of them.

A mirror was the first item in creation that embodied the computer term GIGO. “Garbage in, Garbage out.” In a computer, if you enter good data, you get a good result. You enter bad data; you will get a garbage result.

In photography, you can run an image through a filter, which can remove imperfections. Myriad apps allow for the option to cut people out, add people in and change backgrounds all in an attempt to make the perfect image. Mirrors cannot do that. They do not provide anything new. Mirrors are created to reflect, not process, an image. They simply reflect the person standing in front of them.

Stewards are like this. Created to reflect, a steward will reflect the God in front of them. The steward will either reflect a godly stewardship that holds that God is the owner of all things (Ps. 24:1) and is the One to whom they are accountable, or they will reflect the god of self and see the created order as something to be possessed, used, and in far too many cases, abused. It is not a question of IF the steward reflects, it is really a question of WHO is being reflected.

For this reason, the Lutheran Service Book has included a necessary hymn worthy of meditation: “Forgive Us, Lord, for Shallow Thankfulness” (LSB 788). Its first verse reads:

Forgive us, Lord, for shallow thankfulness,
 For dull content with warmth and sheltered care,
 For songs of praise for food and harvest press,
 While of Your richer gifts we’re unaware.

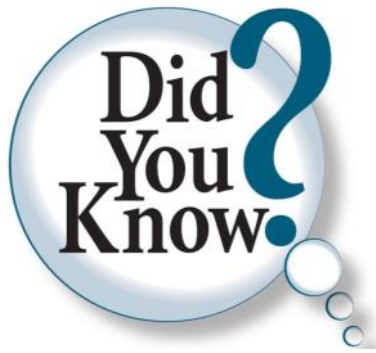

This is a fitting call to repentance for every steward. Our thankfulness is so often shallow. We get comfortable with the overflowing blessings we have entrusted to us by the Lord. These trusts are so many that the steward often forgets the One who entrusts them. Worse, with so many physical trusts evident, the steward loses sight of the greatest trust: the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The failed steward sees so much plenty that they lose sight of the treasure: Jesus!

So, we confess our shallow thankfulness. In absolution, the imperfections of the failed steward are wiped away and a new image is sent into the world. We release our hold on stuff. We rethink our relationship with the created order and recall that it is all to be used FOR JESUS! This keeps the richer gifts in view, for us and for those we know and love who need Jesus.
