Summit considers blessings, challenges of smaller congregations

August 26, 2024 / Reporter / By Roy S. Askins

A group of Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod (LCMS) national and district leaders gathered June 25–26 in St. Louis for a “Smaller Congregation Summit” to discuss issues facing the Synod’s smaller congregations.

The statistics are sobering. LCMS congregations with an average weekly attendance fewer than 50 account for 45% of the Synod’s churches. It’s hardly unique to the LCMS. Recent studies suggest that weekly or nearly weekly church attendance in the U.S. has declined from 42% to 30% among Americans.

The Rev. Dan Galchutt, executive director of the LCMS Office of National Mission (ONM), said these realities are well-known across the Synod. In his portion of the 2023 LCMS Annual Report, he wrote that LCMS district and Synod staff had “identified [the] need to address the challenges and opportunities of smaller congregations.”

In addition, 2023 Resolution 1–02A, adopted by the Synod in convention, calls for aiding small congregations and multi-congregation pastors and parishes. The June 25–26 summit is one outcome of these ongoing efforts.

The Rev. Dr. Mark Wood, ONM managing director for Church Planting, Renewal and Support, opened the summit and set the tone with a quote from Martin Luther. Luther wrote that although the church “is a tiny little flock of the most wretched, forlorn, and hopeless men,” the church does not look for external evidence of success, but to the Word of God and the Sacraments. “If the church is still not in evidence, you should remember that our blessings are hidden and that their magnitude cannot be perceived in this life” (LW 6:149).

“The goal of this summit is to identify issues, not to seek out solutions,” Wood noted. “The issues we identify will be addressed later by smaller congregations, their pastors and their lay leaders, people who understand the dynamics of smaller congregations.”

Summit attendees began by acknowledging common challenges of smaller congregations. For example, lack of financial assets can make calling a pastor and providing for him and his family difficult. They noted how some attitudes within a congregation can hamper opportunities to join with or support other congregations.

In addition, it is all too easy for smaller congregations to feel alone and isolated. On the other hand, summit attendees noted that smaller congregations also have their own strengths, such as high levels of success at passing the faith on to the next generation.

The Rev. Dr. Ken Schurb, LCMS Central Illinois District executive for evangelism and missions, said that smaller congregations often “get a shot in the arm” when they participate in conferences that allow them to meet others like themselves. In so doing, they learn that they are not alone.

After initial discussions, attendees split up into eight working groups to begin identifying areas of challenge and opportunity for smaller congregations. These groups then reported back to the full group with a number of topics for ongoing discussion; resource preparation; and study by LCMS entities, congregations, pastors and laypeople.

Next steps will include forming smaller congregation working groups. The groups will consider challenges, organize and develop resources, and communicate these tools to the rest of the Synod.

Climate Change?

I will confess a climate change is taking place. But to what kind differs from what is being talked about. To me a Christian, the idea of man creating a climate change that will bring about the earth's destruction is merely a theoretical construct of the unbelieving world that denies the authority of God over His creation and His divine will to bring about the end of it when Christ returns.

The climate change I am concerned about, therefore, is the one regarding the cultural climate change we are now facing where new words, acronyms and phrases heretofore unknown are being used to define how mankind can save this world as well as create a perfect society. Things like the Green New Deal, WOKE, cancel culture, LGBTQ etc.... gender dysphoria, critical race theory, and the list goes on.

These are no doubt symptomatic of a climate change that's taking place globally which affects everyone regardless of their religious, political and economic position. They are forces it appears that are attempting to redirect the trajectory of earth, its people, and no less the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

So we might ask, will this climate change, change the world. Will it change humanity, the earth's longevity or greater yet, God's eternal plan for our salvation? For Christians, the answer must be no!

Of course, throughout time man has tried to alter the climate of his world through such things. At times good has come of it such as Dr. Martin Luther King's work during the Civil Rights era. And yet, sinful man remains sinful. He has not changed his spots any more than a leopard can as Scripture reminds us. Nevertheless, men continually try to control their future despite the fact God remains in control of it.

The current cultural climate we are in now, then, is nothing more than another of man's attempts to create a utopia for himself when Christ has already promised us one in His eternal kingdom. The unbelieving world plainly cannot see the hope in this and so tries, albeit foolishly, to create hope when it has no hope for an eternal future.

That's why Christ came into the world, to offer mankind hope when there was none. He came with His kingdom as its King and proclaimed that He created and sustains a perfect place for man to live.

And since His kingdom is not of this world it is not subject to any cultural climate changes, nor is it concerned about whether or not man believes he can cause the earth's destruction.

For this reason, a Christian ought not to worry that the sky is falling as so many believe like Chicken Little who wanted the barnyard animals to believe it. Christians ought not to fall into the trap that men can control the natural world or believe societies can be perfected. Christians, rather, ought to humbly, faithfully and calmly answer God as Job did when He confronted him with His divine power and authority:

"Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge? Dress for action like a man; I will question you, and you make it known to me. Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth? Tell me, if you have understanding. Who determined its measurements – surely you know! Or stretched out the line upon it? On what were its bases sunk, or who laid its cornerstone.... Have you commanded the morning since your days began, and caused the dawn to know its place, that it might take hold of the skirts of the earth, and the wicked be shaken out of it?"

"Then Job answered the Lord and said: 'I know that you can do all things, and that no purpose of yours can be thwarted. Who is this that hides counsel without knowledge? Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand, things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.'" (ESV Job 38:2-6b, 42:1-3)

If only men would confess their sin and glorify God's Son Jesus who came to die on His cross for their sin that He might rescue them from the destruction He will bring upon it when He comes again! For if men did, there would be a true climate change, a change toward the only hope for mankind which is to be part of Jesus perfect eternal kingdom that has no end.

God's Blessings! Pastor Uhrinak

Dr. Stephen Pietsch
Today mental health struggles affect so many people, draining their energy and joy for life and undermining their confidence. People rightly look for medical and psychological treatment to help them in such struggles. Yet, as researchers are recognizing more and more, a large component of these struggles is spiritual, and people need spiritual care and healing too. In this workshop we will draw on the long Christian tradition of care and comfort to those in mental distress, looking into Scripture, as well as gaining insights from Martin Luther and his pastoral care of those with mental struggles.

OCTOBER STEWARDSHIP

The Singing Church

Lutherans have historically been called “the singing church.” There is no doubt that music has been a major component in the theology and practice of the Lutheran church. Luther once remarked about music, “We can mention only one point, namely, that next to the Word of God, music deserves the highest praise.” Music has a power and purpose that cannot be understated in our worship and the life of the congregation.

But music does more than touch the emotions. Music is a vehicle that carries both the musician and the hearer deeper into connection with the truth of the Scriptures. This is true of the most complex Bach chorale and even the simplest of songs like “Jesus Loves Me, This I Know.” Each musical selection within the church shapes the thoughts, minds and faith of the people who experience them.

This is also true of stewardship hymns. We are currently considering the verses of “Forgive Us, Lord, for Shallow Thankfulness” (LSB 788) as it shapes our understanding and practice of stewardship. This month we take a deeper dive into verse two:

Teach us to thank you, Lord, for love and grace
 For life and vision, for a purpose clear,
 For Christ Your Son, and for each human face that shows Your message ever new and near.

The stanza begins by touching on the truth of the Law. Thankfulness is not a natural posture for fallen humanity. For sinners curved in upon themselves, thankfulness for love and grace is something that must be taught. We are those who hoard and clutch. Our confession of our shallow thankfulness highlights the need for us to learn thankfulness to God.

Thankfulness also points to what we are stewards of: love and grace! All the things we have traditionally called stewardship aren’t actual stewardship. Rather, what matters is how we steward the one, true and only treasure: the love and grace of God revealed to us in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. So, all stewardship is stewardship of the Gospel! How can we gaze at the cross and empty tomb and not be thankful?

The LCMS defines stewardship as “the free and joyous activity of God’s family — the church — in managing life’s resources for His purposes.” God’s love and mercy give us a clear purpose as we live out our Baptism and practice this joyous stewardship. All we are, all we have entrusted to us, and all we are called to do is to connect others with the love and mercy of God revealed in Jesus!

The faithful steward sings with lips and life of this love and mercy that is ever new and near. In the Scriptures. In the Lord’s House. At the Lord’s Table. This is where our stewardship song starts and ends. Our family, our co-workers and classmates, and our world need to hear this song!
